How ACGME-CASE LOGS CAN WORK FOR YOU

The ACGME-CASE Log System is more than just a count of numbers of procedures to cases. Cases logs are the key documents that provide important useful information to program directors, residents, and the Review Committee.

Here's how case logs can work for you:

For program directors, Case Log reports can help better understand the kind of clinical experiences residents are having, the Case Log reports will list residents’ free text comments, as well as several ordered choice filters, such as, surgical year in the program, the type of setting, the site of training, or if the patient was male or female. These add another level of granularity so you can better understand what residents saw and their experience.

For residents, Case Log reports provide interesting insights into which type of surgical procedures they are performing and their experience in the program. They can be used to identify trends in the program and to determine what kind of experience the residents are having.

For the Review Committee, the Case Log reports help determine if surgical programs are meeting the minimal standards set by the ACGME. This will include determining if the residents are performing a sufficient number of procedures and if they are performing a variety of procedures.

What's new in the 2020 Case Log?

The 2020 Case Log includes several new features:

1. Increased flexibility in the number of residents per program.
2. Improved reporting options for program directors.
3. New filters for residents to choose from.
4. Improved data quality and reporting accuracy.

What to do if you need help?

If you need help with the Case Log system, please contact the ACGME-CASE Log Team at case_log_team@acgme.org or call 1-800-877-2632. They will be happy to help you with any questions or issues you may have.

Thank you for using the Case Log System. We appreciate your feedback and look forward to hearing from you. Happy logging!