Call for Comments
ACGME-I Institutional Requirements

The Review Committee-International will soon begin a major revision of the Institutional Requirements. This is a scheduled 10-year revision. The current ACGME-I Institutional Requirements were approved in January 2010.

The revision process begins with a request to health officials, designated institutional officials, program directors, faculty members, residents, fellows, and other stakeholders asking them to review the current Institutional Requirements and provide recommendations for changes. When considering changes that may be needed, it is important to think about what the practice of medicine will be when current and future residents and fellows are in the workforce. How can the Institutional Requirements support future practice; and how can they maintain flexibility and promote quality in all countries where ACGME-I accredits?

The Review Committee-International is requesting comments now before any revision is drafted and will request them again in fall of 2020 after an initial revision of the Institutional Requirements is complete. The Committee values the participation of the entire ACGME-I community and carefully considers each comment it receives.

Provide input using the Preliminary Feedback Form. Submit completed feedback forms via email by Monday 6 April 2020 to acgme-i@acgme-i.org. The current Institutional Requirements are available on the ACGME-I website.

A draft of the revised requirements will be available for a 60-day period of public review and comment during the fall of 2020. The final requirements will become effective 1 July 2021.

On behalf of ACGME-I and the Review Committee-International, thank you in advance for providing thoughtful input for the Committee to consider as it drafts revised requirements. Direct any questions on the requirement revision process to ACGME-I Executive Director Lorraine Lewis: llewis@acgme-i.org.