- Current government official, designated institutional official, or physician in another significant leadership role in an ACGME-I-accredited Sponsoring Institution, residency, or fellowship; or,
- Physician who, as a leader in the governing body for graduate medical education in a country, was instrumental in spearheading initiatives toward ACGME-I accreditation

Criteria for Selection

Nominees must:

- meet eligibility requirements
- integrate ACGME-I Core Competencies
- promote the values of the ACGME-I, to include:
 - initiation and/or presentation of outcomes projects that validate the effectiveness of accreditation
 - identification of culturally sensitive issues arising within the transition, with resolution of these issues in an educationally sound manner
 - participation in national/international medical education scholarly activities to further graduate medical education
 - demonstration of excellent leadership and mentorship practices
- be integrally involved in the transition to ACGME-I accreditation, to include:
 - authority and action resulting in ACGME-I accreditation
 - key institutional role during the transition period: initial applications, creation of educational structure, faculty development, transitioning from the “old” to the “new” system
 - advocacy for development of educational processes with emphasis on patient care and on resident and fellow development

Nomination Instructions

Three components are required for nomination:

1. A completed Nomination Form
2. Three letters of support (each letter must be 500 words or less)
3. A current Curriculum Vitae

About the Letters of Support

- Letters should be addressed to ACGME Awards Committee.
- One of the letters must be from the nominator.
- The two other letters must be one each from a person in leadership and a colleague.
- The letters should show how the nominee has brought both intellect and heart to multiple vocations: being a teacher and physician while encouraging the ACGME-I values.
- The letters should show the impact of the nominee's accomplishments in graduate medical education and in practice in the following areas:
 - ACGME-I Core Competencies
 - leadership/mentorship
 - patient care and safety
 - program development and innovation
 - role modeling behaviors, including reflection and humanism

Nominations will be valid for three cycles of awards.
